In India, Black Money Makes for Bad Policy

By KAUSHIK BASU NOV. 27, 2016

NEW DELHI — On Nov. 8, the Indian government announced an immediate ban on two major bills that account for the vast majority of all currency in circulation. Indians would have until the end of the year to change those notes for other bills, including newly minted ones.

On Wednesday, the government released via a smartphone app called “Narendra Modi,” named after the prime minister, the results of a survey purporting to show 90 percent support for its so-called demonetization policy.

Q. "Black Money" is

Cash or any other form of wealth that has evaded taxation

Wealth used for the wrong purposes

None of these

All wealth that is unrecognised
